Red or Blue. For or Against. It sometimes feels like the United States isn't very united. But unity can't be mandated; it must be chosen... So how do we choose it in the midst of so much division?

QUESTIONS

- 02  When asked to love, accept, or forgive someone who disagrees with you, how do you typically respond?
- 03  What's one area in which you could choose to do what is just over what you could simply justify?
- 04  Where have you seen behaviors modeled by others that do not align with your personal morals? How can you choose to stand your ground when the modeled behavior criticizes you for staying true to yourself?
