

SERIES: WHO NEEDS GOD

Episode 6: "I Do"

We all want to be the masters of our own destinies. But what if autonomy is an illusion?

	QUESTIONS	NOTES
01	Talk about a time when you admitted you were wrong about something. How difficult was it to admit?
02 >>>>	"People almost invariably arrive at their beliefs not on the basis of proof but on the basis of what they find attractive." How does this quote by Blaise Pascal apply to your belief in or rejection of the existence of God?
03	If you've walked away from faith, assume for a moment that God does exist. What is your reaction to that notion, and how does it make you feel? As Andy describes in the episode, can you relate to feeling guilty, accountable, or wrong?
04 >>>>	Do you agree that unaccountable people make regretful decisions? Why or why not?
05 >>>>	What if the existence of God brings forgiveness, relationship, and truth? What is attractive or unattractive about each of those ideas?

BOTTOM LINE

Humility opens our minds to what we don't want to see. Humility is the way forward.

Discover something new? Have any epiphanies? Tweet your story and tag us @YourMove.